

Hoping your Christmas and New Year festivities are out of this world.

Best wishes from all the team at LMC.

Another lunatic Christmas creation from Liz Male Consulting Ltd, with apologies to the RIBA.

THE STELLAR PRIZE

Let's take MMC to the moon...

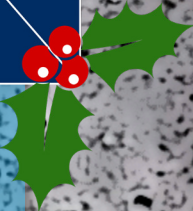

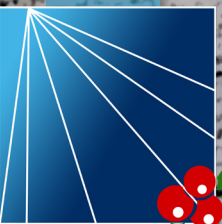

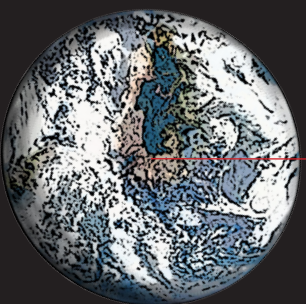

First Europe. Now Earth. Life as we knew it has run its course. After much political and environmental upheaval, the time has come to colonise new worlds.

Thanks to Modern Methods of Construction, we now have the technology to build an offsite, off-world community on the surface of the moon.

So, as we start the new decade, you're invited to take MMC into outer space and design a landmark lunar destination...

Happy Christmas from Liz Male Consulting

MISSION BRIEFING

Stardate: 25.12.2019

Calling all Starchitects. While Planet Earth grapples with the biggest environmental crisis since the dinosaurs parted at Chicxulub, together we herald a bright new dawn of extra-terrestrial living.

Today, we launch the Stellar Prize to design a new landmark building on the face of the moon.

The prize? Stellar recognition, fame and glory.

In the 50th anniversary year of the first moon landing, the Royal Institute of British Astronauts (in association with LMC) is looking for the best architectural model for a home on the moon.

The model of your proposed building must be constructed with whatever recycled materials you have to hand – it could be the remains of your Christmas crackers or even those nice shiny wrappers off the Quality Streets.

Send us a festive photo of your model in front of its lunar backdrop (the inside of your Christmas card) to hello@lizmale.co.uk and a donation to the Construction Youth Trust will be made for each one.

The best model will win the prestigious Stellar Prize 2020, to be announced in February.

It's one small step for MMC, one giant leap for humankind.

Remember to plant your flag (see enclosed) and send us your photo by 31 January 2020.

Happy Christmas!
